Seed-Grown Plants!
Hybrid Mesembs!

UPCOMING MEETING

Date: Tuesday, May 26th, 2026
Time: 7:00 PM
Location: Denver Botanic Gardens - Gates Hall
Presentation: The Hybrid Mind
Presenter: Russell Wagner
Details:

Having explored large swaths of the succulent smorgasbord — Russell has grown euphorbias, haworthias, cacti, succulent daisies, pelargoniums, crassulas, succulents of the Canary Islands, and many other groups — his steadfast focus remains winter-active South African succulents: the compact mesembs (living stones), spiral- and prostrate-leaved bulbs (Gethyllis, Massonia), Tylecodon, and Adromischus. In recent years, hybrid work has come to occupy a great deal of his thinking/feeling about plants, and several hybrid lines — some successful, others less so — have materialized in his collection. A tour of Russell's greenhouses, is a dizzying barrage of shapes, textures, and colors seen nowhere else.

Notes From the Potting Bench

By all measures, the 2026 Show and Sale was a huge success. Because RMC-NARGS held a separate sale this year, there was plenty of room for new vendors, wider aisles and a bigger show space. The Clover system worked well, and there were never more than 20 people in line waiting to check out.

Total sales: $162,193 (an increase of $32,622 or 20% over last year).

Total paid entries: 2,238 (an increase of 358 or 16% over last year).

New members: 35.

The same great food trucks came and there was an added surprise – a Lucha Libre wrestling event was held in an adjoining building – lots of noise!

Special thanks to volunteers (in alphabetical order) who went above and beyond their responsibilities – volunteering all three days. If I do not mention someone, please forgive me as I tried to make notes.

Sandi Bagley, Sharon Bolton, Scott Burkholder, Sylvia Dorsky, Mike Dorsky, Pat Dunahay, Kritika Dwivedi, Richard Earle, Pedro Galvez, Tu Li, Ta Li, Neal Lundquist, Adrian Saunders, Sandy Tran

Thank you to all of the other volunteers who helped out, without you, the Show and Sale could not happen. Everything went smoothly – only a couple of minor problems – because all of you are experienced and can solve problems at the moment.

We moved to a new storage locker, only five minutes from the fairgrounds – making it easier, saving a lot of time for everyone, and saving money.

Elections for the 2027 Board are coming soon, so if you want to serve on the board, let one of the current board members know so we can get you on the ballot. CCSS is a great group and we need new people to implement creative and valuable programs for the future.

"The Hybrid Mind" - Russell Wagner

"Russell is an Oakland-based succulent hybridizer specialized in winter-active succulent and bulbs. He has served as editor of Cactus and Succulent Journal and published a book on mesembs with Steven Hammer (with more to come!). The gathering should prove an apt merger of two forces in the succulent plant world: our society, and Russell himself, both founded in the same year.

Having explored large swaths of the succulent smorgasbord — Russell has grown euphorbias, haworthias, cacti, succulent daisies, pelargoniums, crassulas, succulents of the Canary Islands, and many other groups — his steadfast focus remains winter-active South African succulents: the compact mesembs (living stones), spiral- and prostrate-leaved bulbs (Gethyllis, Massonia), Tylecodon, and Adromischus. In recent years, hybrid work has come to occupy a great deal of his thinking/feeling about plants, and several hybrid lines — some successful, others less so — have materialized in his collection. A tour of Russell's greenhouses, which member Panayoti Kalaidis experienced at the height of the recent winter growing season, is a dizzying barrage of shapes, textures, and colors seen nowhere else.

Russell Wagner

Which, if we're honest, is not a unique situation: plant collections are always varied, daunting, and chaotic reflections of the mind of the grower.

Russell grows his plants from seed, having discovered early on the frugal economy, taxonomic depth, and morphological variety (even within a single species) that growing from seed allows. Thirty years on, his greenhouse is a living testament to his many interests, a smattering of this and that in a sea of specializations.

In this month's talk Russell will attempt a kaleidoscopic presentation of the plants he grows, highlighting the variation that can be found within species, and the unexpected results that arise when you cross species together. The work he will describe is something any grower can achieve, but the fascinating fact is that any two people, starting with the same source material, will create hybridization results — indeed any horticultural result — entirely distinct from one another. This is the hybrid mind: the intersection of chance, desire, personal aesthetic, and will that makes every collection as unique as each plant (and human) within it.

In addition to showing a few slides, Russell would like members to bring in their own seed-grown plants and hybrid succulents so we can have a sort of extended show-and-tell discussion about how we think and feel about bringing new life(forms) into the world—and deciding, in the largesse of seedraising, what gets to live and what will be tossed into the compost bin."

Program description provided by the speaker.

Awards, Trophies and Ribbons from the 2026 Show & Sale

Hello,

Now that we've had time to wind down after the Show and Sale madness, I've compiled a list of winners from the 2026 Show. But, before we get to the winners, I want to thank everyone who showed a plant, we had a little over 200 entries this year! The quality of plants was remarkable in both divisions, y'all really showed up for the show :) I'd also like to thank all the volunteers who helped keep everything running smoothly, you all really are the MVPs, the show couldn't have gone on without you!! I'm super excited to see what next year's will look like!

Sincerely,

Pedro Galvez

CCSS Monthly Plant Show - Pedro Galvez

We have a special request for this month's Monthly Plant Show!

Our presenter, Russell Wagner, would like us to bring either plants grown from seed or hybrid mesembs. This will dovetail nicely with his presentation, and we are pleased to do this.

So, please take a quick look at your collection, and pick out a winner!

Thanks!

11th Independent Plant Breeders Conference

11th Independent Plant Breeders Conference

November 16 - 18, 2026

Conference Details

Where: Fairchild Tropical Botanic Garden, 10901 Old Cutler Road, Miami, Florida 33156

Registration Cost: $110

Purpose: As demand for new crops in the American market skyrockets, independent plant breeders are a key source for new plant introductions. This conference will yield quality partnerships necessary for making new plant introductions lucrative for the independent plant breeder. This conference provides a proven arena for independent plant breeders to Learn the expectations of their business partners

Understand the decisions necessary for patenting new introductions

Network with other independent plant breeders, and

Turn their passion for plant breeding into a commercial reality.

Consider sponsoring this event.

Learn about the 2026 IPBC Sponsorship Opportunities.

Tentative Schedule:

Monday, 11/16 - Morning tours of Silver Vase Orchids, UF/IFAS TREC, and Costa Farms with lunch

Evening welcome reception and dinner at Fairchild Tropical Botanic Garden

Tuesday, 11/17 - Full day of speakers and networking with lunch

Student Poster Presentations with mixer

Wednesday, 11/18 - Half day of speakers and networking with lunch

Enjoy Miami or depart in the evening
